3. recognizes the global urgency of the crisis of climate change and its impact on the well-being of all people, especially the most vulnerable in societies

  - b. designing and taking strategic actions toward sustainability and resilience in our dioceses, communities and congregations, taking into account local ecological and economic contexts and opportunities
  - c. reviewing and making necessary changes to church investments to ensure these are visibly supportive of a move towards a low carbon economy
  - d. making energy efficiency and access to renewable energy a priority in all church operations
  - e. teaching the Fifth Mark of Mission<sup>1</sup> in theological and church-sponsored educational bodies
  - f. urging political, economic, social, and religious leaders in our various constituencies to address the climate change crisis as the most urgent moral issue of our day consistent with the United Nations' 21st Climate Change Conference, Paris 2015,
  - g. recognizing and supporting Indigenous peoples' right free, prior and informed consent in decisions concerning the environment and the well-being of communities, and
  - h. advocating for sustainable water, food, and agricultural practices in our communities consistent with the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals
